

Publication types

Books

Scholarly: científico

An array of: una serie de

Journalist: periodista

Course: asignatura, curso

Scholarly books can be reference works or handbooks for a whole discipline or for just one particular subject area, written by one or more authors about a particular topic, or they can be composed of an array of articles which a journalist or editorial board has compiled into a book.

An edited scholarly book is a work that has not been written completely by just one author, or a group of authors, rather the contents have usually been collected from several authors and edited. The title page of a book says 'Edited' or 'ed', or Herausgegeben (hrsg.), Redigerad (red) depending on the language of the publication.

A textbook is a work specifically written to be a course book. It is not necessarily apparent that the book was originally written to be a course book. Course books are usually more readable than scholarly works.

A monograph is written completely by just one author or a group of authors. It may also appear as a part of a publication series.

A chapter contributed to a scholarly book/publication series as part of an edited book. An author or a group of authors write a chapter, section or an article for a scholarly book edited by someone else. The same person or a group can act both as editor of the book and contributor of one or more chapters.

ACTIVIDAD 1 – Completar

Scholarly books
Tipos
Autores
Estructura

ACTIVIDAD 2 – Leer los sectores A monograph y A textbook

- Elegir la opción correcta - Presentan una definición SI NO
- Subrayar similitudes
- Hacer un círculo a las diferencias de contenido
- Completar con el pasado de "is" en "is written"
- ¿Qué palabra introduce a quién o quiénes ejecutan o ejecutaron la acción?
- Buscar el equivalente a: "que se puede leer"
- En "completely" la terminación "ly" significa buscar otro ejemplo
- "it" se refiere a.... ¿Por qué se utiliza?
- "May" indica que es posible o que es necesario

ACTIVIDAD 3 – Comparar la forma de ambas ideas. Identificar las diferencias

A monograph is written completely by just one author or a group of authors. It may also appear

An edited scholarly book is a work that has not been written

- b. ¿Qué sigue a “that”? ¿Para qué se usa?.....
- c. Elegir la opción correcta. El verbo expresa una acción en presente o en pasado
- d. “written” deriva de
- e. Identificar el o los sujetos que ejecutan/ejecutaron (o no) esta acción
- f. Elegir la opción mas apropiada “Rather” sino más bien o también
- g. Comparar los sujetos y los verbos

1. a work that has not been written by just one author
2. the contents have usually been collected from several authors and edited.

Para singular se usa Para plural se usa

Elegir la opción: Los sujetos ejecutan o reciben la acción de los verbos.

¿En qué caso está indicado el que ejecuta?..... ¿Con qué palabra se indica el que ejecuta?

ACTIVIDAD 4 – Colocar las siguientes frases en el lugar apropiado

A dictionary - A handbook - An encyclopedia

Reference works

..... is an extensive compilation of information. It may be general, containing information about a large amount of different topics, or it may focus on a particular subject matter such as medicine or engineering. Some encyclopedias concentrate on offering information from a certain cultural or national point of view. An encyclopedia may be arranged according to headings, either in an alphabetical order or by subject matter. Alphabetical order is the most common, particularly in general encyclopedias. Articles in encyclopedias may vary in length from a few sentences to several pages, depending on the encyclopedia.

..... is a kind of reference work that presents words, usually in alphabetical order, chosen according to some particular criteria. In monolingual dictionaries, explanations are given for the words; other dictionaries offer foreign language equivalents of the words.

..... is a kind of reference work that presents central information from a particular subject field. Handbooks are useful sources of factual information, which provide help in solving practical problems. They may contain for instance tables, constants and standards, and often they offer references to other sources of information.

ACTIVIDAD 5

a. Unir con flechas

Length

Verbo en presente

The most common

Introduce ejemplo (tal como)

Such as

Superlativo

Other

s. deriva de "long"

Presents

indica que ya hubo uno mencionado antes

Newspapers

A newspaper is a publication which comes out regularly, is typically funded by paid subscriptions and advertising and can be published in printed and electronic format. It contains news and articles that report or comment on different aspects of life and society. Current events and surveys form their main contents, but in addition they contain material on culture, sport, entertainment and other topics. The distribution of newspapers can be on the national, regional or local level.

ACTIVIDAD 6 – Completar

- Frecuencia:
- Financiación:
- Contenidos:
- Temas:
- Alcance:
- Formato:

Magazines

Magazines are published at regular intervals and in terms of content the articles can be general or popular, scientific information, political reviews, economic or consumer information, but may also be articles related to hobbies. There is great variety in size and paper quality, or they may be published uniquely as web publications.

ACTIVIDAD 7 – Completar

- Frecuencia:
- Financiación:
- Contenidos:
- Temas:
- Alcance:
- Formato: